

Company Bio:

Alex Audio Butler is developed by Unimule, a small independent company based in the Netherlands, founded by Jerre van der Hulst, working together with people all around the world.

Our mission is to make creating easier, by automating things that can be done by computers so humans can spend as much time as possible on the creative parts.

Our first product Alex Audio Butler is a plug-in suite for Adobe Premiere Pro that saves video makers valuable editing time better spent elsewhere. It allows handling all audio-mixing only on by high-level preferences, without needing to think about audio-details.

Apart from enabling shorter turn-around time Alex Audio Butler can prevent mistakes and create better, more consistent end-products or client-previews.

